

Sex sells

Whether book, movie or series - fanfictions exist for almost every literary or pop-cultural work. The sexuality of the characters is a popular core content. Many works border on pornography. Often the line is even crossed.

Fanfictions allow fans to creatively enter into the stories they love. They write alternative realities set in the universe of the original work or use its characters. They are published in online forums.

Popular material for numerous stories is the demure Twilight saga. With "50 Shades of Grey", E.L. James founded a book series that was originally based on the romantic vampire story. In the meantime, fanfictions have been written about the new series.